

Erik Andervad

Viale marco polo 36, 00153 Roma, Italy, c/o Scoffone/Esposito

Tel: +39 3281 055 591 Email: erikandervad@hotmail.com

Experience

Tibetan Settlement Office

2011

I did an internship at a community-based waste disposal and recycling project, run by Tibetan exiles in Dharamsala, India. I gave lectures to school classes about the environmental situation and made a survey among local businesses.

Vårljus AB

2013–2014

I have been working with assisting and integrating asylum seeking youths in Stockholm municipality.

Fieldwork for master's thesis

2014

I did six weeks of field research in a rural area of Meghalaya, India. I conducted interviews and focused group discussions using an interpreter. The topic of the thesis was if attitudes to forest conservation were changing in relation to the implementation of a community REDD+ project and traditional institutions for forest management.

Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations

2014 – 2015

I have been working together with the Forest and Farm Facility management team and country facilitators in building capacity and give institutional support for forest and farm producer organizations. During my time I have worked on developing and monitoring the FFF small grant system, I have been attending two market analysis and development trainings in Vietnam, coordinated a research paper on youth engagement within producer associations, and planned, coordinated and attended the XIV World Forestry Congress in South Africa.

Education

BA Development Studies, University of Gothenburg

2009-2012

Combined studies in global development and human ecology

Dublin City University

2011

Exchange studies in International Relations

MSc Geography, Stockholm University

2012-2014

Master Program in Globalization, Environment and Social Change

Languages

Swedish Native

English Advanced

Skills

Microsoft Word, Open Office, Microsoft PowerPoint, Microsoft Excel